THE OCEAN YAUHTS. fr. Bennett Presents the Henristta to Prince Alfred -- The Prince, in a Friendly Letter, Declines the Offer.

London, Monday, Jan. 28.

The following correspondence between James Gordon Bennett, Jr., and H. R. H. Prince Alfred, has been permitted to be published, as the sentiment expressed in H. R. H.'s letter are of an interesting character, and tend to show the feeling of England toward the United States:

MM. BENNETT TO PRINCE ALPRED.

or England toward the United States:

MS. BENNETT TO PRINCE ALPRED.

OFF COWES, Monday, Dec. 31, 1866.

Four Royal Highness:
At Lord Lenson's dinner on Friday last you were pleased to match your yacht, the Viking, to sail the Henrietta around the lete of Wight next August, for a cup worth one bundred pounds. I could not say so then, because I was bound to make the match proposed, but in fact this arrangement will somewhat interfere with the disposition which I had determined to make of my yucht in case she should win the ocean race. I beg that you will accept as a New Year's gift to an English yachtsoman, from an American yachtsoman, the Henrietta as she now lies in perfect order off Cowes, and I have instructed Captain Sanucles to hold her subject to your orders.

The unbounded hospitality with which the American yachtsome have been creeived by all classes in England will always be remembered in the United States with the warmers gratuide; and I sincerely hope you will not deprive me of the opportunity of acknowledging this most cordial reception, by presenting the winning yacht to the representative of English yachtsmen.

I have the honor to remain,

Very respectfully yours,

J. G. BENNETT, Js.

PRINCE ALFRED TO MR. BENNETT.

PRINCE ALFRED TO MR. BENNETT.

CLARRICE HOUSE, JAMES, Jan. 23, 1867.

Dran Rin. Bennett.—I find it difficult to express how gravefully 1 approciate the kindly feeling which dictated your letter of the dist ulture, as well as the splendid present which you offer to my acceptance, but most of all the delicacy with which you exek to diminish the personal obligation under which you would lay me by giving to your generous offer an international character. It is, indeed, this last consideration only which has led me to hestate in replying to your letter; for personally, it would have been impossible for me to accept so costly a present. But I felt bromd fully to consider the question in the light in which you were good enough to place it; and if on full consideration I feel compelled to decline your generous offer, I trust that PRINCE ALFRED TO MR. BENNETT. ace it; and it on full consideration I feel com-clied to decline your generous offer, I trust that elther you nor your gallant competitors, nor our countrymen at large, will believe that the achtemen of England less appreciate or less re-procate the feeling of good-sellowship which compted the offer.

ciprocate the feeling of good-fellowship which prompted the offer.

The Henricita is a vessel which any man may be proud to possees; and I trust she may long continue in the bands in which she has accomplished so triumplant a success. We must do our best to find a rival to her; as d, in common with all Englishmen, I sinceruly hope that such friendly rivalry may be the only description of contest in which our respective countries may were be engaged. It has given us great pleasure to offer a cordial reception to you and your companions in England, and I feel assured that if my professional duties in command of one of ler Majesty's ships, should ever take me to your shores, I should there meet on the part of my brother scamen with a reception not less hearty than that which we have been happy to afford you here.

Believe me, yours, sincerely,

Alfried.

Plantation Manners.

From the Washington Chronicle of the 25th.

The diagraceful personal altereation in the House yesterday between Hon. William D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Cooper, of Tennsee, was a precious sourceair of auto-helium times, when the lords of the lash were in the habit of libratishing their pistols and bowle-knives in the face of Northern representatives who undertook to maintain opinious of their own. Those days have so far vanished that the murderous weapons which the chirulruns Southerners mistook for argument are no longer hrought into requisition, but Mr. Cooper's conditive spirit is willing the flesh is weak." His undignified and ungentlemantly reply to Judge Kolley's remarks was fortunately treated by the able representative from Pennsylvania in the manner which it deserved, and the affair consequently ended in a hamiless war of words. This is us it should be Judge Kelley had no occasion to resort to any idegitimate means to enforce this argument. The country, or at least the loyal and respectable portion of it, knows him better and more favorably than it does Mr. Cooper, and what he stated in the House yesterday has been passed upon and sanctioned not only by his own Immediate constituents int by millions of his countrymen from Maine to California. Such conduct is disgraceful to the House, and it is to har regretted that the Speaker did not call Mr. Cooper to other at once, upon his using the offensive language. From the Washington Chronicle of the 25th ----

There is a vast disparity between the two empires in population and territory, Tarkey hong twenty fire to thirty times larger than Greece. But the Tarks draw their soliders only from their Mussulman population. This is nominally 20,000,000, but much of it is unavailable for recruiting purposes. Turkey could not put into the field, for aggressive waffue, more than 189, 000 men. Her in vey is small. She has, however, King's daughter, and was declared heir to the following out from clads, but her salors and navai officers are blundurbands and landmen. As to money, the equipment, neither army nor ships are supplied with proper modern arms. As to money, the treasmy is bankings. Greece has no more money than Turkey. She has only a few men of war in her max, about twenty-five in dit, but her called so the analysis of the story, for he and it was in cossible to come to the other part of a till he locusts.

will take the tronble and space the time to read it through:

There was once a cartain king, who, like many Eastern kings, was very fond of hearing stories told. To this omusement he gave up all his time, but yet he was never satisfied. The exertions of his courtiers were all in vain. He at last made a proclamation that if any man would telt him a story that should hat for ever, he would certainly make him his heir and give him the princess, has daughter, in marriage, but if any one should pretend that he had such a story and should fall—that is, if the story did come to an end—he was to lave his head cut off.

For such a price as a beautiful princess and a kingdon, many candidates appeared, and dreadful long stories some of them told. Some lasted a week, some a mouth, and some six months. Foor fellows, they all spun them out as long as they possibly could, but all in vain. Sooner or later they all came to an end, one after another, and the unincely story-tellers had their leaded chopped off. At last came a man who said that he had a story that would last for ever, if his majesty would be pleased to give bim a trial. He was warned of his danger; they told him how many others had tried and lost their keads, but he told them that he was not afraid; and so he was brought before the king. He was a man of a very composed and deliberate way of speakhe was brought before the king. He was a man of a very composed and deliberate way of speak-ing, and after making all necessary stipulation for his cating, drinking and sleeping, he that began:

"Oh, king! there was once a king who was a "Ob, king I there was once a king who was a great tyram; and desiring to increase his riches, he seized upon the corn in his kingdom, and put It in un immense granary, which was built on purpose, as high as a mountain. This he did for several years, until the granary was quite full to the top. He then stopped doors and windows on all sides. But the bricklayers had, by accident, left a very small hole near the top of the granary, and there came a flight of locusts, and tried to get at the corn, but the hole was so small that but one locust could get through at a time. So one locust went in and curried off one grain of corn, and thum another locust went in and curried off another grain of corn, and then another locust went in and curried off or another grain of corn, and then another locust went in and carried corn, and then another locust went in and carried off or another grain of corn, and then another locust went in and carried of corn, and then another locust went in and carried of corn, and then another locust went in and carried of corn, and then another locust went in and carried of corn, and then another locust went in and carried coat went in and carried off another grain of corn, and then another locust went in and carried off nonther grain of corn, and then another locust went in and carried off another grain of corn, and then another locust went in and carried off another grain of corn, and another locust went in and carried off another grain of corn, and another locust went in and carried off another grain of corn.

He had gone on thus from morning till night (except when he was engaged at his meals) for about a mouth, when the King began to be father tired with his locusts, and interrupted his story with:

"Well, well, we have heard enough of the locust, we will suppose they helped themselves to cust, we will suppose they helped themselves to all the corn they wanted. Tell us what happentience for six months more, when he again interrupted him with:

"Oh! friend! I am weary of your locusts.—
How soon do you think they will have done?"
To which the story-teller made answer: "Oh, King! who can tel?" At the line to which my story has come the locusts have cleared a small place; it may be a cubit each way round the hole, and the all is still dark with locusts on all eddes.
But let the King have patience, and no doubt we shall have come to the end of them in time!"
Thus encouraged, the King listened on for an other fall year, the story-teller going on still as before:

"And another locust went in and carried off another grain of corp, and then another locust went in And carried off another grain of corp, and then another pain of corp, and then another locust went in and carried off another grain of corp, and then another locust went in and carried off another grain of corp."

At last the poor King could stand it no longer, and cried out:

personal and the state of the control of the contro entered the place in disguise. Here he found over fifty noted gamblers, sports and others engaged in a game, enjoying themselves to the full-dest extent, and little salicipating what was in store for them. The Sergeaus, after enjoying a wisw of the game for a short time, made almostif known to the party, who in utter astonishment jumped from their seats, and the greatest excitement ensued. They all made for the door with a view of escaping; but they were too late, as they were not by a guard, who forces them beth into the ruom. There was no less than from $10,000 to 16 15,000 on the table, which the cashier selred and put in his pocket. The gambling implements, consisting of two tables, 300 checks, a dealing box, layout board, &c., were all taken possession of and conveyed to the Fifteenth precinct station house. The prisoners were all permitted to go at large, except Heenas, Louis Baker (the alleged marderer of Bill Foolle, Wm. Russell and the colored servants, Charles Willia and Wm. Johnson. They were locked up in the station house, and will this morning be taken to Jefferson Market Court.

the Republic met here to-day and was well attended. They adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we endorse the resolutions expressive of the principles and purposes of the Grand Army of the Republic adopted by its recent National Convention at Indianapolis.

Resolved, That the Grand Army of the Republic is not organized to make nominations for olikee, nor ma a mere secret organization to further the ambition of political aspirants, but its purpose is to promote the cause of neity eloyality and to advance, by all legitimate and proper influences, the general wellare and interests of the soldiers lately in the United States Anny; and to secure the attainment of these ends we imite the co-operation and support of all patriotic and liberal-minded chilzens.

Resolved, That to refule calumny and prevent misapprelication we hereby declare that while the Grand Army of the Republic has its secret ceremonies and means of recognition, such as are wisely and properly adopted by all similar modelicies to increase their bacfulness and efficiency, it attempts no conceniment as to its existence or membership and has no objects that it is not ready on all proper occasions to above.

Military Trials -- The Late Decision

Major Halpine, of the New York Citizen, though a strict Democrat, is too much of a soldier to be pleased with the late decision of the Supreme Court in the Milligan case, pronouncpropositutional the military trial of civilians during the inte war of the rebellion. Though it may be technically correct in its construction the law and the Constitution, Major Halpine is free to say that "It must, nevertheless, be rerded as a most unfortunate thing for the coun try. It is a miserably pettifogging spirit than will revive criticism in the hour of calm, of ac tions performed when the danger was greatest."

Officers of the United States may be harrassed for the balance of their lives for having performed acts of high importance at the time, which they might have been cashlered or shot for relaying to perform; and, white in some cases, the claims against them may take the shape of suits for damages in money—what can be the character of said suits when men have been found guilty, condemned and hung by military combissions or other tribunals of which these officers were members? All such acts belyioning under a strict interpretation of the late instounding opinion, would amount to constructive numer. ing opinion, would amount to constructive nur der; and all officers forming members of suc courts must be held liable to trial for the

THE WEATHER AND THE SLEIGHING .- The heavy fall of snow which terminated on Sunday seems to give promise of prolonged good sleigh-ing. Until Monday the country toads were nidisnerceable. On Tuesday, although the storm had subsided, the weather was extremely cold, and the thermometer exhibited a lower temperature during the ensuing twenty-four hours than at any time previous. We have no record for Tuesday night, but on yesterslay morning at 7 o'clock mercury stood at 28 degrees helow zero; at 7:30 at 24 degrees below; at 8 o'clock at 22 degrees below, and at 10 o'clock at 10 degrees be-

THE ORGAN AND SACRED CONCERT At the Episcopal Church last evening was a most gratifying ancreas in every particular. The selections winced classic tasts of a high order. The solos were excellent, and gave the audience an opportunity of admiring the finest voices of our city. The choruses Were well brought out and with good effect, especially in Mozart's "Giory be to The quartette, "Come, Holy Spirit," was the gem of the evening and the endering was most exquisite. The Voluntaries, by Prof. Fitzimmons and Dr. Young, were exeecdingly meritorious, and manifested much talout and skill. Taken altogether, the concert exceeds anything that has heretofore been brought before the public of Titusville. It is to be hoped that the success of this performance will be an Inducement to the Musical Association of this city to make an effort in the same direction

The Opera House and The Lucky Mun. Public interest has not yet subsided in Mr. Abraham Hisgerman Lee, who, in drawing the Chleage Crosby Opera House, has realized the truth of the proverb that It's "better to be born lucky than rich." For some time subsequent to For some time subsequent to the drawing, Mr. Lun was regarded as a myth, who had no sort of existence outside of Mr. Crosby's imagination, but since he has actually up, established his personal identity and rendered himself visible to the naked eye, at Chicago, the controversy is settled beyond doubt, the disappointed multitude have expressed themselves "satisfied," and Mr. Crosby is relieved of serious imputation Mr. Lee arrived in Chicago . Saturday night. He is described as a middle-aged gentleman, rather estiring and modest in his demeanor, but when spoken to, of a most kindly and courteous lisposition. He is middle-sized, stout-built, with gray bair, and a countenance beaming with good himor. He has been engaged in the commission business for fifteen years at St. Louis, and now lives in pleasant retirement at Prairie Du Rocher, which is said to be a most pleturesque as well as interesting little place. He was at home when the interesting news came that his ticket had drawn the Opera House. He had only invested in one chance. He at once replied to the telegram sent by Mr. Crosby, in the following terms: SUS LETTER TO MR. CHOSET.

JAQUARY 25, 1867.

U. H. CROSEY, ESQ., Chicago, III.

DEAR Sin: 'I received a dispatch last evening, via Belleville, III., and a note by courier, from Messrs. Pattes & Leathe, of St. Louis, nemainting me with the very interesting fact that my ticket, No. 58,000, had drawn the Opera House, II would seem that a sight of the ticket is of some consequence, as several parties from St. Louis have already been here to have a look at it.

I am sorry to say that I am unable to leave

I am sorry to say that I am unable to leave home just now, on account of the dangerons illness of my wite, which is a great drawback to the great pleasure I should enjoy at this marvellous piece of good fortune.

I have written to my brother, Daniel G. Taylor, of St Louis, to answer all questions for me concerning business, until such time as I may be able to leave home. In the meartime, I remain your much obliged and wory humble servant.

A. H. LEE.

THE TRANSFER.

On Saturday evening a number of gentlemen of Chicago met Mr. Lec, to congratulate him or his good fortune, and Mr. Lee announced bis versation Mr. Crosby, who was present, made him an offer to purchase the Opera House for the sum of $200,000, and Mr. Lee accepted the offer and relinquished his right to the property. Several toasts were drank upon the occasio and responded to.

Immediately after the adjournment of the meeting Mr. Lee indited the following LETTER.

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune.
I desire to personally acknowledge the obligation I am under to U. H. Crosby, Esq. for the promptitude and contrasy with which he has dealt, with me as the owner of the Opera

As soon as the books were unscaled by the committee and my name was discovered, a telegraphic message was sent by bim to Pettex & Leathe, the agents of the Association at St. Louis, to "put a laithful man on horselack and at once notify me of the fact," and this was done without expense to me.

The liliness of my wife has prevented me from sooner coming to Chicago.

It was my wish and request that I might come here and trunsact my business with Mr. Crosby without becoming the object of unpleasant notoriety, and without having my name hersidad. In the newspapers, and I feel deeply indefined to him for the considerate manner in which the request has been observed, especially which the request has been observed, especially indehice to him for the considerate manner in which the request has been observed, especially as it cost lim some embartassment, as well as occasioned invideous comment.

Feeling that the Opera House should properly be owned by Mr. Crosby, I made him the offer to sell it to him for two hundred thousand dolines, and the offer was accepted in a spirit which was minst gratifying, and the money promptly paid to me. My connection with the Opera House having thus happily terminated.

I am very respectfully yours.

Your friend and brother,

"A. H. Les. It is estimated that Mr. Crosby's total profit on the undertaking amounts to $650,000, or $50,000 more than the estimated value of the Opera House itself. He has certainly proved himself a shrewd financier, and if he has cheated any body the fact is yet to be proved. Every ticket buyer understood the proposition, and if they invested in the grand enterprise with their eyes disappointments. And it is of all things unus for any newspaper that has advertised the scheme and pocketed Mr. Crosby's cush, to suddenly wake up to the immorality and illegality of his enterprise after the drawing has transpired. They were equally cognizant of the fact before, yet having co-sperated for the success of the undertaking they now strive to make a litt cheap reputation by deprecating the popular credulity and decrying the successful speculator. The mother of the officer claimed and received a pension under the act of July 14, 1862, and the Commissioner of Pensions rejected the application of the father on the ground that the act of June 6, 1866, excludes the father from the benefits of the pension laws if dependent mother be living at the time of the con's decease; and that, under the pension laws the survivorship of a dependent mother is a bar to the claim of any of the heirs of the officer, soldler or scamen, of whom the mother take precedence.
